NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.
Aldrich's Estate.
Rufus Lund, Barton.

Rev. J. H. Cox has closed his pastorate here and gone to a new field.
He leaves many warm friends, who wish him abundant success in his new home.

Miss Cynthia Farr has just returned from a visit to her mother's home.
She has a splendid assortment of millinery goods. Her rooms are over C. B. Rowell's store, opposite the Congregational church.

The Sabbath School at the F. W. Baptist church was re-organized a week ago last Sunday. R. M. Walker was chosen Superintendent, and Benjamin Heath assistant.

If you haven't anything else to do, read Nasby's letter in another column. It is good for hypo and bad for a lame side.

Mr. James Guild has brought to our office a pea-vine, four feet in length, with one pod of full grown peas, raised by him this year.

John Fort has sold the tools and good will of his blacksmith business, to John Arley, and gone to Derby, where we understand he intends to forfify.

The next Quarterly Meeting of the Orleans County Good Templars' Union will be held with Blazing Star Lodge, No. 64, West Derby, on Tuesday, June 11th.

J. Thurston, Sec'y
The Ex. Committee of the County S. Convention have changed the time for holding the Fifth Session, at Craftsbury, from June 18 and 19 to June 25 and 26 so as not to conflict with the Vt. State Convention of Congregational Churches.

Somebody sends us the following four lines of poetry which are not so bad as might be:

"Come on, ye frogs and birds,
Mosquitoes, if you please;
This being time for eight long months
Is worse than killing fleas."

Miss A. J. Cutler has just received a new lot of millinery goods, so that now she has the largest and best assortment she has ever had. She says she never had such a run of custom as she has had this spring, and the only way she can account for it is that she has advertised more than she ever did before.

You can't very well help seeing Skinner & Drew's new advertisement. If you don't believe what they say, just go into their store and be convinced. We heard John say to a man the other day: "I can sell you a suit of clothes so cheap, that if you didn't know I never done such a thing, you'd think I stole them." We believe the man bought the clothes.

On account of the small-pox case at Glover, and the number that have been exposed, we would advise most everybody to take the precaution to get vaccinated, and then if you "keep cool" there is no danger. But if you think you are going to have it sure, you probably will. We once knew a hundred men exposed all at one time and not one took the disease.

Last Saturday afternoon Mr. Alonzo Clark, while drawing wood for Mr. Ellis of this village, from the barn of Warner Brothers, concluded, instead of going round, to take up one length of plank in the sidewalk, and save time. Under one of the planks he found rolled up in a Boston Journal, dated Sept. 6, 1871, four leather wallets. One of the wallets had the address of Liberty Aldrich, Troy, Vt., written upon the inside; also contained notes running to the same, to the amount of $100.00. Another had four shoemaker's pegging awls and an advertisement of the C. & P. R. headed Grand Excursion to Newport, July 4, and had 3 printed tickets, "Pass either Gate. A. H. Huntington, Treasurer." The pocketbooks were probably placed there by some pick-pocket, after having taken what scrip there was, at the time of our last County Fair.

We judge from the number in attendance at the lecture last Friday evening, that our village folks do not care much for such things, or else they had forgotten all about it. Here we had an interesting, first-class lecture, from a gentleman who had lived ten years, down in Chili among the proud Chilians, and had learned a lesson by observation, in regard to that people and country, such as could not be learned from all the geographies and histories that could be piled between here and the next cattle-fair; yet there was only about 25 persons present to hear it, although it was a free lecture, with a collection at the end, giving every one a chance, or nothing at all. We noticed, however, that all who were present, appreciated the lecture well enough to give something. The lecturer, Rev. N. P. Gilbert, gave an interesting sketch of a trip over the old Andes, on mule back, surrounded by Bandits, who often attack travelers; gave a description of the country, cities and towns, spoke of the scenery, the people, their customs and habits, education, religion and agricultural resources of several of the Spanish Republics, but more particularly of Chili, where he resided; also of the earthquakes.

In crossing the Andes it was necessary to do it in the early part of the day, as at other times there was danger of being blown away by the strong winds. The climate is temperate and healthy. Rain falls in the winter months, from June to September, and the country is covered with wild flowers and verdure. Fruit and berries of which there are an abundance, instead of being sold by the quart, bushel or pound as in this country, are sold by the hundred, even down to the strawberry, which are sold for 8 cents. Oranges, lemons, apples, &c., from 15 to 20 cts. A great many of the fruit dealers could not count a hundred, but by putting their hands twelve times into the basket and taking out eight each time and then adding four to that, they would deal out the right number. "Hull-corn and sweetened water," is one of the frequent cries heard upon the street. Pork is sold sometimes by the pound, and sometimes it is sold by the yard. There are five or six different classes of people; the higher classes not mingling much with the lower. A laborer with rough hands is not considered of much account; but if he gets to be "boss," of a gang of hands, then he is looked up to and admitted into the best society. The Chilians are more active and intelligent than the other inhabitants of Spanish America, and are making considerable advancement in their state of society. They have some fine school houses and excellent schools. Protestant churches are becoming more numerous and the Catholics are losing ground. When Mr. Gilbert first went to Santiago, the ladies wore no bonnets, and their hair in two long braids hung swinging down the back; but now they wear bonnets and do up their hair exactly as we do here. They are not, as a general thing, so good looking as American ladies, although there are some slight complexioned and very fine looking women. A young lady, among the higher classes, never goes out upon the streets unless attended by a maid or married servant, and never rides out with a young man until after marriage, (mighty particular.) A young man never calls on his lady-love without the mother of the girl stays with them in the same room, (we'd "blimp" the old lady.) Whenever an earthquake shock is felt, the inhabitants immediately rush into the street, whether it be at mid-day or mid-night, and sometimes the scene is very ludicrous. In short, fellow citizens, the lecture was interesting all the way through, and if you had been there you could have heard Mr. Gilbert "talk Spanish." The Spanish language he said was the easiest language in the world for the Americans to learn.

BARTON LANDING.—At the school meeting last Tuesday evening, the district voted to accept the plan of the Locating and Building Committee. Their estimate of the cost of the house was $4,500. The location the majority voted on, is a few rods east of the hotel. A part of the district were not satisfied with the location, and there will probably be another meeting of the district. The plan of the proposed building is 30 X 60, two stories high, with front all 20 X 20, same height.

Messrs. Austin & Joslyn are preparing to put up an addition to their store, 25 X 35.

CHARLESTON.
An ecclesiastical council convened at West Charleston, May 22, for the purpose of dissolving the pastoral relation between Rev. A. C. Childs and the Congregational church at that place, with the following result:

That in view of the state of feeling existing towards the spator, as represented by the committee of the church, we deem it expedient that the relation be dissolved, and the same is hereby declared to be dissolved when the church shall have adopted the result. In coming to this result the council, while commending the kindness and candor of the church in presenting their case, take occasion to caution all our churches against allowing accumulating causes of slight insult to weaken their affection for a faithful pastor, thus contributing to the unsteadiness of the relation. And further, the council are able to declare with great satisfaction, that they have found nothing in their investigation of the causes which have led to this dissolution, to impair their confidence in the essential integrity of the christian or ministerial character of the retiring pastor, whom, accordingly, they hereby commend to the confidence of the churches, as, in their judgment, an honest, faithful and useful minister of the Lord Jesus Christ; who carries with him their tender sympathies and earnest prayers for his further prosperity in the work of the Lord, wherever Providence may assign his labors.

COVENTRY.
Dea. S. F. Cowles returned last Saturday from his trip to Cal., where he has been for a little more than a year. He went there with his son James for his health and left him there much improved. He thinks it a very fine country.

DERBY.
Frank Mitchell had the misfortune to saw part of his thumb off while working in B. B. Field's mill, a few days since.

The summer school at West Derby, has commenced, with fair prospects. A goodly number of scholars attend. Miss Ada Gough, of Newport, Teacher.

The Wheelock Free Will Baptist Quarterly Conference will hold its next session at West Derby, commencing June 1st and continuing through the Sabbath.

An open Lodge meeting was held at the Good Templar's Hall a short time since; the exercises consisting of dialogues, recitations, &c., interspersed with music by the band, making in the whole quite a pleasant entertainment.

An Old Folks' Concert was held at the church, at West Derby last week for the benefit of the church. The opening exercises consisted of a soul-stirring chorus, "Take up the carpet," followed by "Take out the windows," "Clean your pews," "Wash the wood-work," &c., &c. The costumes worn on the occasion, were appropriate washing-day costumes.

GLOVER.
Last Wednesday, the 22d, there were 25 persons in the village sick with the measles.

The trace chain that somebody found between here and Barton, belongs to Lewis Barber. He wants it.

Rev. N. W. Scott lost, last week, a cow valued at $75. The cow got choked with a piece of potato, and in attempting to dislodge it she was injured internally.

A large lot of fruit trees from the Derby and Hardwick nurseries came to town last week for citizens in various parts of the town. Many barren and unfruitful side-hills and corners are being beautified by these trees.

Glover has had a genuine case of the small-pox. Henry Wright, son of David Wright, and hostler at Foster's Hotel, soon after returning from Boston, was taken sick and died Sunday. Some thirty persons from Glover and Barton—acquaintances—visited him before it was known that the disease was small-pox. There is a good deal of excitement in consequence and the physicians make vaccination an important branch of their business.

IRASBURGH.
Mr. Alexander Greenwood has sold his farm to Mr. Joshua Bede.

Alexander Greenwood Jr. was brought before Justice Howard on the 21st inst. and fined $5 and costs for deserting the rights of his manhood and being caught in the company of King Alcohol.

NEWPORT.
The steamer Lady of the Lake commenced running on Saturday, and will soon make regular trips.

Young America amuses himself in this village by tying strings across the sidewalks, and then hauling off to watch consequences. The experiment proving neither pleasant nor profitable a discontinuance was decided upon after the first offense, which caused some bruised limbs and a basket of broken eggs.

VERMONT MUTUAL FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY.
The officers of the Vermont Mutual Fire Insurance Co., have issued a pamphlet of sixteen pages, in vindication of charges made by the agents of the Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Co., in which they show the superior advantages of insuring in the Vermont Mutual, it being safer, cheaper, and its plan of doing business much better. We make the following brief extract from the last page:

A brief statement will demonstrate the superior cheapness of insuring in the Vermont Mutual. Its theory is to insure for each year of the six its policies run, at actual cost. All of its accounts are annually squared. The balance of the 3 per cent. in excess of "incidental expenses" is annually applied to the accounts of "losses," and the usual small balance in the treasury is applied in the same way; and therefore the annual assessments are made to meet the losses. In this mode, insurance is reduced to actual cost every year, including interest on the losses of each year for half a year only on the average.

The theory of the Farmers' Company is different, being to insure, not for the cost of each year, but of five years. Hence it takes in advance what it regards as enough to cover the five years, and the consequence is the great loss of interest to its members, which we have explained—and this practically enhances the actual cost of insurance in it. The Stock companies are out of the question, when compared with either the Vermont Mutual or the Farmers' Company. This is the simple truth as to really good Stock Companies, as is shown by the three facts, that they pay their agents large commissions, the newspapers large sums for advertising, and their stockholders large profits. If any Stock Company offers truly cheap insurance, that fact raises a reasonable doubt as to its safety. We think our arguments must and do understand these things; but if they do not, they are fit neither to criticize the Vermont Mutual Company, nor to act as agents for others.

We now place it in the hands of our agents, for the benefit of persons seeking insurance, that they may understand correctly the course of our company, and be guarded against the unfair and unjust statements of at least interested, if not strongly prejudiced, insurance agents.

We advise all who have property to insure to call on the agents of the Vermont Mutual and procure and read a copy before insuring in other companies.

ANOTHER CARBIDE GIANT.—DOVER N. H., May 21.—Enoch F. Fernald of Madbury, while plowing on his farm, struck with the plow a petrified body, which on being exhumed appeared to be that of an Indian completely petrified. It measures 7 feet 7 inches in length, the arm being 3 feet long. The head measures 12 inches through from forehead to back part. It was considerably broken in the excitement of getting it out. A root of a pine tree near which it was found was growing across the neck and another across its arm. From the shape of its head it was judged to be an Indian, having a retreating forehead and high cheek bones. It lay in a recumbent position on its side, the tip of the plow just scaling off one arm. Considerable excitement was caused by its discovery, and we learn that Boston parties are already negotiating for it to be put on exhibition. The petrification appears to be a fossiliferous granite, and will weigh about 800 pounds.

STATE ITEMS.
Extensive and thorough repairs are being made at the State house.

The dwelling house, shoe shop, tannery, and barn, of John Williams, of Poultney, were burned Monday morning.

An almost inexhaustible supply of richly variegated marble has been discovered on the shores of Lake Champlain, and it is expected that Champlain marble will take the place of the imported varieties.

Last week Saturday a barn belonging to William Learned, of Fairfax, was struck by lightning, and together with a large stock of farming tools, was burned.

Frank N. Watson and Charles C. Hayes, of St. Albans, were sentenced last week Thursday to hard labor in State Prison, for larceny; the former for eighteen months, and the latter for two years.

Last week Monday night Lewis P. M., youngest son of the late Calvin Spencer, M. D., of Clarendon, committed suicide at the Merchants' Hotel in New York city. A letter received by his family from him stated that he was there "for medical treatment."

Last week Thursday Ann Lillie, of Woodstock, was made the victim of a good swindle in Boston, Mass. A well dressed young man whose acquaintance he had made, kindly gave him ten pieces purporting to be gold for a $10 bill. The metals had eagles on them surrounded by the words "Composition Spic-mak."

Monday morning of week before last, Orrin Stale, formerly a well known merchant at Brattleboro, was found lying dead on the stone steps leading into the basement of the Clark House at Hartford, Conn. He was returning from New York, where he had been to purchase goods, and retired the night previous in seeming good health. It is thought that he must have fallen from the window of his room, as there was no marks to indicate a struggle, and everything in his room was undisturbed.

THE SUPPLEMENTARY TREATY.
The "Supplementary Treaty" proposition made to our Government by the English Government, after being the subject of two or three days' deliberations in the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, has received the sanction of a majority of the committee, with an amendment proposed by Senator Patterson, providing against all British claims upon our Government growing out of the Fenian raids into Canada.

The question is now before the full Senate, where it is likely to be discussed pretty thoroughly before receiving the assent of that body. Mr. Sumner is said to be very strongly opposed to it as an abandonment of what he regards as the most vital issue between the two countries. This was to be expected, inasmuch as the question of "consequential damages" may well be claimed as Mr. Sumner's own "thunder." We suspect he can lay claim to being the first statesman, if not the first man, in America to propound the idea of holding England responsible for the expenses of the war from and after the battle of Gettysburg.

We suspect the majority of the thinking men of America never believed in any such responsibility, and never expected England to admit any such responsibility. President Grant and Secretary Fish certainly did not believe in it, three years ago, since the first fault found with Mr. Motley was in relation to his too urgent pressing of this very claim.

How, then, came it afterward to be made the first and chief part of the "American case" presented to the arbitrators at Geneva? President Grant and Mr. Fish can tell, we doubt not. We can only guess. And our guess is that they trusted the preparation of the "case" to Caleb Cushing and Bancroft Davis, the government attorneys, and, afterward, did not like to go back on their own subordinates. Whatever the explanation, it has been the fruitful source of an unpleasant agitation in both the countries interested, and has come out too near breaking up all pending negotiations on the subject of the Alabama reparation.

The "Supplementary Treaty" is perhaps, the best way out of an awkward predicament. As such, we hope to see it approved by the Senate, as we are sure it will be approved by the best public sentiment of the United States.—Concord Monitor.

Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry is "a combination and a form indeed" for healing and curing diseases of the throat, lungs, and chest. It cures a cough by loosening and cleansing the lungs, and allaying irritation; thus removing the cause, instead of drying up the cough and leaving the disease behind.
